Re: Oppose House Bills 4785-86, Unemployment Insurance Tax Increase

As businesses of every size and industry and employing thousands of Michigan workers, we are writing to express our strong opposition to two bills passed by the House in May of 2009 to expand Michigan's 100 percent employer-financed unemployment insurance system. We are currently struggling to provide jobs, pay our taxes and survive the current economic environment in Michigan. These bills, which are now in the Senate Commerce Committee, would make this situation even worse.

House Bills 4785-86 seek to expand unemployment insurance (UI) benefits to individuals who are not currently eligible to receive them. The expansion would provide benefits to part-time workers (i.e., persons who would be allowed to turn down an offer of full-time employment and still be allowed to collect an unemployment check) and extend benefits (i.e., an additional 26 weeks on top of the current 79 weeks) to claimants enrolled in work training programs.

The extra costs for these two changes will drive up employer UI taxes to the tune of $70 million dollars per year, every year. Because Michigan's unemployment insurance system is financed by Michigan employers through a payroll tax, these increased costs will immediately result in a payroll tax increase on Michigan job providers -- and come at a time they can least afford it.

The only reason for this legislation is so that Michigan can qualify to receive a one-time payment of $139 million in federal stimulus money. However, in two years the one-time money will have dried up, meaning employers will be left to finance the additional annual costs through higher payroll taxes. Adding to job providers' burden at this time is just bad public policy for Michigan.

Keep in mind that Michigan is already more than $2 billion dollars in debt to the federal government because our state's UI Trust Fund is insolvent. Even without these ill-advised changes, Michigan employers will likely see payroll tax increases in order to pay this money back to the federal government. As other states with less unemployment claims decline this money and refuse to make these changes to their UI system, Michigan will find itself in yet another uncompetitive position with regard to payroll tax rates.

For these reasons, we urge you to oppose HBs 4785-86 by keeping these bills in Committee. Please give Michigan employers the opportunity to survive the economic downturn -- without tying job providers' hands with another tax increase.
